

When shopping for vegan cosmetics you will find something missing on the label. Nowhere does it say “for oily skin” or “for dry skin”. That is because the special mineral oils used are suitable for all skin types. This might sound strange if you are new to vegan make up, but once you try it, you will see it is true. Your skin’s appearance will be transformed without the heavy, suffocating feeling you get from regular make up.

The secret to mineral cosmetics is the skin soothing botanicals and minerals that blend seamlessly with the natural oils in your skin for perfect coverage that is surprisingly light and long lasting. The anti-oxidant green tea protects your skin from sun damage and visible signs of premature aging. But, beauty is more than skin deep. Using mineral and vegan cosmetics, helps you to be beautiful on the inside. The companies that produce these products are ethical in practice. Beyond not testing on animals, you can be assured that not one part of any animal was used.

This may sound like a no-brainer. Who would ever use animals to produce cosmetics? Actually, most cosmetics are not even regulated by the FTD or Health Canada. Current laws allow

Which vegan cosmetics are right for you

Friday, 23 April 2010 18:31 -

manufacturers to use just about any ingredients they choose. But, Health Canada is working on changing that. Currently these ingredients are not allowed . If you find any of them in any products on the shelves or that you purchase, you are encouraged to inform Health Canada by emailing bcs-bipc@hc-sc.gc.ca.

Find your inner and outer beauty without animal products. Check out the fabulous vegan cosmetics companies in our directory for great Canadian vegan cosmetics and other vegan products to make your life better.